ENGLISH TRANSLATION

I have tried in vain for a long time to avoid passing on this elementary knowledge, since only the brightest part of the awakened ones, already bathing in the rich core of ALLHEIL, can follow this particular information stemming from research. But on the one hand, my conscience is torturing me, on the other hand, numerous brothers and sisters, demand for a further increase of their stage of being. In this article you must read between and after the lines!

What exactly do you know about the energetically highly active and effective transfer of the ownership of property? Have you ever tried a Durian and enjoyed its incredible taste, and most of all, its aromatic scent? If it were up to me, I could eat kilograms of this abnormal medicinal fruit. But unfortunately most of the beings, that call themselves human are of a different nature. Surprised by the wonderful scent of this fruit, they react with a face warping in all directions. Not babies and toddlers, they devour durian, all sense organs are still halfway intact in them. Through my long stay in Thailand, I must have eaten 1 - 1.5 kg of durian every day, sometimes more, my mouth began watering at the slightest thought of the superfood. As further training guests enriched our team, some I could never see running so fast during training, as in the moment my host-mum of choice would offer this fruit to us.

What has happened to us with the years? Why did we distance ourselves so severely from the source weaving within us? The holy Templar Lanz von Liebenfels reports: The brain appendix (hypophysis) is the remainder of a long since(?) vanished organ of sense, which is connected to the oral cavity. Acromegaly is related to 7 diseases of the pituitary gland"). ... Near the brain appendix is a second mysterious ancient organ, the pineal gland, into which the ancients and Cartesius placed the seat of the soul. Newer researchers explain the pineal gland as rest of the vertex-eye of the Stegalocephalen. We will come back to this emphasized sensory organs at a later place.

The thousands of years old and in its versatility multifaceted branching research proves the indispensability of conscious learning from animals. One flooded by the purest elementary knowledge of the antiquity, was Cleopatra of Macedonia. One notices, she did not come from Egypt, her father was Ptolemy XII. Neos Dionysos († 51 b.C.). Cleopatra VII. was descended in straight line of ancient Macedonian nobility; their ancestor Ptolemy I. had been an officer of Alexander the Great. Alexander exerted enormous influence over the following centuries, and his, as well as the striking power of his numerous warriors, was not without reason victorious across the empires. What exactly did this commander and wise man give to his people, what the other tribes, at that time not exactly defenselessly presenting themselves, did not have or know about? Alexander will not have fed durian to his men and Cleopatra was also not considered the most beautiful white woman in the foreign empire, because she was purely outwardly attractive. To become empress of a foreign folk required enormous power in advance, as well as its maintenance. To defeat Egypt by raid alone was not possible in those days, especially not in the flourishing empire, which had millions upon millions of strong and extremely well-fortified men among its people.

The 19-year reign of Cleopatra brought her people enormous prosperity, especially the expansion of the empire with the annexation of further provinces achieved under the premise of that prosperity. Against the animal bastardism from Rome, she was defeated in the end, also betrayal against her was partly to blame for that. Faith in a benevolent continuation as before, is suffocated in the bud. To want to live in a world of fraud is understandably not everyone's cup of tea. But during her reign Cleopatra did something very surprising every day, which, when I saw it in the family records of my well-read ancestors, made me astonished: she "bathed in milk".

We are well advised not take everything literally, since the history forgers do not want to see us in our perfection and bliss. The daily milk baths, of course, are not to be regarded as those, since in the antiquity, which was characterized by consciousness, the third eye, the biblical gland, was regarded, as the creator, the perfect being behind the incarnation, that has come down as man.

She, Cleopatra bathed this pineal gland in the "milk" of 2-4 dozen donor men and that every day! She pressed the "milk" with her tongue onto her palate, and like this, the organ of creation (see again the sentence of Lanz von Liebenfels) "bathed" in the highest possible life energy of this world, the sperm.

Always in the "69" position she enjoyed this elixir, gave the strong knights in return her serum. In the exchange of this act, a barely definable turbocharging of the body, as well as the mind and the soul was created. The army became strong, almost invincible. What Cleopatra thought and felt at that moment was manifested, due to the high creative density during the act! Only the animal people of Rome, as well as a lack of empathy in their inferior arrangements, was the reason for the fall of Cleopatra's empire.

A further symbol makes even clearer with the same information content, what force is involved in this physical fusion. In the course of the research of her relative, the officer of Alexander the Great, tens of thousands of soldiers were transformed by the bodily juices of their wives or selected mistresses in the same way into extremely powerful creators. The same knowledge lived on until today in some selected circles, extremely powerful performances of invincibility within the past epochs did not come out of nowhere. But the essential, the energy purity, was not considered by the ancient rulers, what an essential aspect the knowledge about the animal slaughter and the relevance of food, backed up by research is. Today we are even more knowledgeable!

Just as sperm is the highest carrier of life energy in this world, lower in energy density, but because of the sheer quantity, other bodily fluids are equally powerful. It is not without reason that Satanism feeds on the blood of its victims and in this way tries to maintain its own disgusting actions by enriching its energy. If they knew our knowledge, they would never torture or even kill their victims, but would feed on the source of life. Further relevant knowledge is only reserved for initiated brothers and sisters under oath. So may the readers forgive me. Finally, let's emerge ourselves in a little poetry again...

Do not let the bastardrace of Yahweh's dark creeper insult you, Holy people distance themselves from the masses, the evil of the furunkel - critter, burning the manors house to dust, avenging beating of the nose.

*Seeking salvation, releasing fighting fury, "Never again bloodshed!
Is torment a part of the gentleness, cruelly chastising animals?
In spiritual poverty never will a man find freedom,
he, who wisely does only good, holy trinity will fathom.
Never trust all evil masters, teachings are only lies,
build wings from mind-genius alone, to multiply creator's sparks!
Youth, strength and competence, experience your stony journey,
Virtue creates intelligence, forgiven will be the powerful, quiet.
Climb, weaving God's sprout, bring the earth's round to germination, you are the voice of the living animals, the pure ones proclaim the manifesting!*
